FLOCO RUBBER SURFACING

CERTIFIED SPECIALIST

THE COMPLETE GUIDE

WELCOME TO

THE FLOCO FAMILY

FLOCO began with a small idea, a lot of hope, and absolutely no way of knowing just how far that idea would take us.

What followed were years of learning, building, failing, fixing, improving, celebrating, worrying, dreaming bigger, and showing up again the next morning.

There has been a lot of blood, sweat, tears, and heart, poured into FLOCO.

We learned this industry one project at a time. We learned what worked. We learned what didn't. We learned where rubber surfacing could be better, where businesses could do better, and what was possible when craftsmanship, integrity and genuine care for the customer came first.

Somewhere along the way, FLOCO became so much more than a company to us.

It became something we believed in.

And now, somehow, that little idea has made its way to you. There is something incredibly special about that.

Becoming a FLOCO Certified Specialist means you're doing more than learning how to install rubber surfacing. You're becoming part of the story we're still writing.

We're trusting you with a name that means an incredible amount to us, and we're doing that because we believe you share the same values that built it.

Everything we've learned, the victories, the mistakes, the systems, the little details, we've poured into these pages for you.

Take what we've learned. Build on it. Make it your own.
And then go create something we're all incredibly proud to put the FLOCO name on.

Thank you for believing in this little dream of ours. Thank you for trusting us with a piece of your business. And most of all, thank you for allowing us to trust you with a piece of ours.

YOUR ULTIMATE GUIDE, ALL IN ONE PLACE.

This is everything. Every technique, system, script and hard-won secret from your FLOCO certification, written down in one place and put in your hands to keep. It isn't a test to pass or a manual to memorize. It's your reference for life, the thing you reach for out on the truck, before a big pitch, or the night before your very first install. We put it all here so you never have to wonder "wait, how did they say to do that?" again.

And here's the good news: you don't have to read it cover to cover. Start with the chapter openers and the callout boxes to get the lay of the land, then dive deep into whatever you need, exactly when you need it. Skim it today, master it over time, and come back to it forever. That's what it's here for.

AS YOU READ, WATCH FOR THESE

- FLOCO Rule: the non-negotiables. When you see one, it matters.
- Do This & Straight Talk: step-by-step checklists and the honest truth, no sugar-coating.
- FLOCO Fred's take: the in-the-field wisdom, the stuff we learned the hard way so you don't have to.

Welcome to the family. Let's build something beautiful.

PART I · THE FOUNDATION

01 welcome to the few

WELCOME & THE FLOCO STANDARD

You didn't stumble into this. You were chosen, vetted, and trained to carry a name that a whole family has poured its heart into. Before the trowel, before the first job, let's talk about what that name actually stands for.

THIS ISN'T A PRODUCT.
IT'S A PROMISE YOU CAN FEEL.

FLOCO Rubber Surfacing is not a coating and not a paint. It is not one of the thin sprayed-on finishes that look nice until the sun gets to them. It's a true rubber surfacing system: premium TPV granules combined with a specialized binder and hand-troweled over a professionally prepared substrate, creating a substantial surface with performance you can feel underfoot. Comfortable, slip-resistant, permeable, cooler than hardscape, and beautiful enough to change how a whole space feels. That's the thing you now get to build for people.

We're a family-owned company with a simple obsession: do rubber surfacing the right way, every single time, so the FLOCO name means something. A hundred-plus five-star reviews later, people don't ask for "rubber decking." They ask for FLOCO, by name. You're stepping into that reputation, and this book is how we hand it to you.

> "Engineered to perform. Designed to belong. That's not a slogan. It's the bar every FLOCO surface has to clear, including yours."

THE FOUR THINGS THAT MAKE IT FLOCO.

Anyone can cover a surface. FLOCO transforms the whole space, and it does it because we refuse to cut the four corners everyone else cuts. These are non-negotiable. They are the difference between a floor that turns heads for years and one that embarrasses you by next summer.

THE FLOCO STANDARD · NEVER COMPROMISE THESE

- ✓ Premium TPV. We never let the finished surface be compromised by what's in it. Genuine materials, always.
- ✓ Preparation without shortcuts. Substrate prep, drainage, stabilization and transitions are handled before the surface ever goes down.
- ✓ Craftsmanship you can see. Hand-troweled by a trained specialist. Clean edges, crisp lines, precise transitions, consistent texture.
- ✓ Designed, not just installed. Color, architecture and how the space is actually used are considered, so the finished surface feels intentional.

FLOCO RULE

If a job can't be done to all four standards, it isn't a FLOCO job. Walk away from the work that would make you break them. Protecting the standard is protecting your own premium.

THE NAME YOU NOW CARRY WAS EARNED BY A FAMILY.

Every gorgeous install someone else does makes your phone ring. Every bad one makes it quiet. That's the deal with a shared name, and it's why we were careful about who we handed this book to. When a customer sees the FLOCO badge on your truck, they're trusting years of other people's blood, sweat and five-star work. Honor that, and it carries you. Cut corners, and it follows you.

Here's the good news: living up to the standard isn't a burden, it's the whole advantage. In a market full of cheap-guy contractors, being the certified specialist who genuinely does it right is the easiest way to charge more, stress less, and build something you're proud to put your own name next to ours on.

FLOCO Fred's take

Treat every single job like the FLOCO family is standing right behind you watching, because in a way, we are. Do that, and you'll never have to compete on price a day in your life.

YOU WEREN'T GIVEN THIS NAME. YOU EARNED IT. NOW GO MAKE IT BIGGER.

PART I · THE FOUNDATION

02 earned, never given

WHAT BEING FLOCO CERTIFIED MEANS

Not everyone gets to wear this badge, and that's exactly what makes it worth wearing. Here's what your certification means, what it doesn't, and the independent-business truth that protects both you and the customer.

THE BADGE ISN'T GIVEN. IT'S EARNED.

Before a single company can offer FLOCO Rubber Surfacing, they're evaluated for their reputation, workmanship, professionalism and commitment to doing things the right way. Then they complete an intensive, hands-on certification program that teaches far more than how to trowel rubber. You did that. Most who ask, never get here.

FIVE DAYS OF INTENSIVE, HANDS-ON TRAINING

- ☐ Premium TPV & materials: the products, ratios, systems and materials behind the finished surface.
- ☐ Substrate preparation: inspection, prep, stabilization, drainage and problem solving.
- ☐ Installation & troweling: hands-on instruction in consistency, technique and proper installation.
- ☐ The details of the details: edges, drains, steps, curves, transitions, inlays, repairs, finishing.
- ☐ Design & customization: color theory, custom blends, sectioning, inlays and the Design Studio.
- ☐ Quality standards: demonstrated workmanship and attention to detail worthy of the name.

Trained, tested, certified. That's what the badge on your truck actually stands for, and it's why a homeowner should choose you over the cheapest quote every time.

WHAT IT MEANS, AND WHAT IT DOESN'T.

This part matters as much as anything technical in this book, so read it slowly and say it the same way to every customer. Being FLOCO Certified makes you part of our standard. It does not make you part of our company. You are, and always remain, an independent business.

THE INDEPENDENT-BUSINESS TRUTH · TELL CUSTOMERS PLAINLY

- ✓ You are an independent, locally owned business. The customer hires and pays your company directly for the work, not FLOCO Decking Systems.
- ✓ FLOCO trains, certifies and holds you to our standards to install FLOCO Rubber Surfacing. The installation and the customer's agreement are between the customer and your company.
- ✓ If something isn't right, a customer can report a concern to FLOCO. We review every one, and a specialist who falls short of the standard can lose their certification.

None of this is fine print to hide. It's a feature. It means the customer is buying from a real, local, accountable neighbor, backed by a national standard. Say it with pride: "I'm an independent, locally owned business, FLOCO trained and certified. You hire me, and FLOCO holds me to their standard."

YOU CAN LOSE IT.
THAT'S WHAT MAKES IT VALUABLE.

A certification you can't lose is worth nothing, because everyone would have one. Yours means something precisely because FLOCO will pull it from anyone who stops earning it. That protects the brand, it protects the other specialists, and most of all it protects you, by keeping the badge rare and the name premium.

FLOCO RULE

Certification reflects completion of FLOCO's training and standards. It is not a FLOCO guarantee of your company's workmanship or contracts, and it never lets you promise beyond FLOCO's written warranty. Represent it honestly, always. Full terms are at the back of this book.

FLOCO Fred's take

Think of the badge like a black belt, not a trophy. Nobody can take the skill from you, but you can absolutely lose the right to wear the belt if you stop honoring what it stands for. Wear it like you earned it, because you did.

Foundation set. Now for the fun part: the craft itself, where a FLOCO install stops being a promise and becomes a floor.

PART II · THE CRAFT · THE INSTALL IS THE MAGIC

what's in it matters

GENUINE MATERIALS & HOW TO ORDER

A FLOCO surface is only as good as what goes into it. This is the system, why every layer is there, and how to keep genuine FLOCO materials, and only genuine materials, on your truck.

NOT A COATING.
A TRUE RUBBER SURFACING SYSTEM.

FLOCO isn't painted, rolled or sprayed over an existing surface. It's built in layers, each one doing a job. Premium TPV granules are combined with a specialized binder and hand-troweled over a professionally prepared substrate, with drainage and prep handled for that specific project. Understand the layers and you understand why FLOCO outlasts and outperforms a thin coating.

THE FLOCO SYSTEM, TOP TO BOTTOM

- ☐ Premium TPV wear surface: the rich color and texture you feel underfoot, engineered for UV color stability.
- ☐ The FLOCO binder system: the specialized glue that locks the granules into one substantial, flexible surface.
- ☐ Professionally prepared substrate: the foundation you build in Chapter 4. Everything rides on it.
- ☐ Project-specific drainage & prep: permeability planned for that exact space, so water moves through, not across.

> "Anyone can cover a surface. The system is what turns a cover-up into a surface people can feel the quality of."

WHY TPV, AND WHY GENUINE ONLY.

TPV is the heart of it, and it's why FLOCO looks new for years while cheaper rubber goes chalky and brittle. We don't believe the finished surface should be compromised by what's in it, so the material is never where we save a dollar.

WHY TPV WINS

- Color stability: exceptional resistance to UV-related color fade.
- Far less powder residue than EPDM: dramatically cleaner in the mixer and in the bag, so the binder coats the granule properly instead of coating dust.
- More consistent color across the floor: a blend mixed from TPV reads the same in the far corner as it does at the step. EPDM drifts.
- Flexibility: stays resilient instead of turning brittle like traditional surfaces.
- Durability: made for demanding outdoor and high-use environments.

SOMEBODY ELSE ALREADY PROVED IT

Rosehill TPV was independently tested to EN 14836. After the equivalent of 3,400 hours of UV, every colour in the range came back with no perceptible change at all. The one thing a customer worries about most is the one thing you do not have to ask them to take on trust.

FLOCO RULE · GENUINE MATERIALS, ALWAYS

Only genuine FLOCO materials go into a FLOCO job. Substituting a cheaper granule or binder isn't a shortcut, it's a breach. It voids the product warranty, it risks the customer, and it can cost you your certification. There is no "close enough" here.

ORDERING, THE EASY WAY.

Your materials come through FLOCO's approved supply channel, and ordering is built right into your FLOCO Certified app so you're never guessing or scrambling mid-job. Order early, keep a working stock, and never let a job stall waiting on material.

ORDERING DISCIPLINE

- [ ] Order through the app. Materials and reordering live on the Materials screen. It routes you to the approved FLOCO supply source.
- [ ] Measure, then add a margin. Order for the square footage plus waste. Running short mid-pour is how good jobs get rushed.
- [ ] Keep the essentials stocked: TPV, binder, and the FLOCO proprietary cleaner. The cleaner never leaves your truck.
- [ ] Store it right. Keep binder cool and shaded and lids sealed. Heat and open lids ruin product before it ever hits the floor.

FLOCO Fred's take

Treat material like money, because it is. A shaded, organized, well-stocked trailer is the quiet difference between a crew that flows and a crew that's always making a hardware-store run at 2pm.

TWO SUPPLIERS.
BOTH ACCOUNTS ARE YOURS.

You buy direct, in your own name. FLOCO does not sit in the middle and marks nothing up. Set both up in your first week.

1 · AMERICAN RECYCLING — GRANULE AND BINDER

Genuine Rosehill TPV and Pre-Mark 80 binder. Buying genuine material here is what keeps your certification active.

Setting the account up is one phone call to your rep, and they do the rest. Their name, email and number are in your app, on the Materials screen.

2 · MEADOWBROOK INVENTIONS — GLITTER

Glitter does not come from American Recycling. We use Polyester Jewels, part P0140HX, Chrome Silver Hex (.040), sold by the pound and shipped from New Jersey in a day. Open your own account with a call and a card on file.

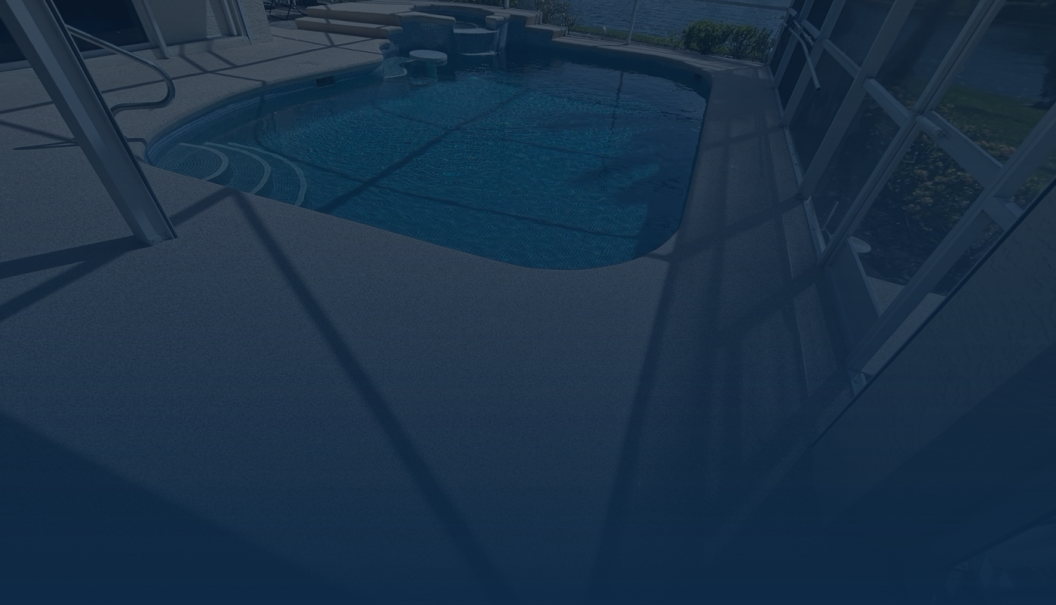

Carol Franks, General Manager · cfranks@meadowbrookinventions.com · 908-766-0606

THE THREE NUMBERS BEHIND EVERY ORDER

- [ ] Granule: 25 sq ft per bag, split across your blend by percentage.
- [ ] Binder: 150 sq ft per pail of Pre-Mark 80.
- [ ] Glitter: 2 oz per bag, so one pound covers eight bags, or 200 sq ft.

FLOCO Fred's take

Your app does all three sums and writes both emails. Learn the numbers anyway, for the day you have no signal.

PART II · THE CRAFT · THE INSTALL IS THE MAGIC

04

the job is won here

THE PREP NOBODY ELSE DOES

What you don't see matters as much as what you do. A FLOCO surface fails or lasts based on the hour nobody photographs: the prep. This is where the years come from.

START WITH A REAL EVALUATION.

Every FLOCO project begins the same way: not with rubber, but with an honest look at what's already there. Before you quote drama or promise a date, you inspect. Substrate condition, drainage, movement, adhesion and prep requirements all get assessed, because those are the things that decide whether a surface lasts or lifts.

THE EVALUATION · STEP 01 OF THE FLOCO PROCESS

- ☐ Substrate: what is it, what shape is it in, and will FLOCO bond to it?
- ☐ Drainage: where does water go now, and where should it go? Permeability is planned, not hoped for.
- ☐ Movement: cracks, settling, expansion joints. Existing cracks are treated during prep, though future substrate movement can still occur, and the customer should hear that plainly.
- ☐ Adhesion & prep: profile, cleanliness and priming needs before a single granule goes down.

Quote what the space actually needs, not what makes the number look pretty. An honest evaluation is the first thing that separates a specialist from a coatings guy.

PREP WITHOUT SHORTCUTS.

Substrate prep, drainage, stabilization and transitions are all handled before the finished surface goes down. This is the part cheap installers skip to save a day, and it's the exact reason their floors fail. You're going to do it right, every time.

THE PREP PROTOCOL

- ✓ Clean & profile: get the substrate sound, clean and ready to bond. No dust, no debris, no contamination.
- ✓ Treat & stabilize: address cracks, movement and weak spots so the foundation is stable before you build on it.
- ✓ Drainage & priming: plan how water leaves, and prime so the FLOCO system grabs and holds.

FLOCO RULE · PERMEABLE BY DESIGN

FLOCO lets water move through the surface, not across it, but that only works when the substrate and drainage are prepped for it. Water management is planned in prep, never patched in later. Poor drainage is where mold, staining and callbacks are born.

THE LAST THING YOU DO BEFORE YOU POUR

Once every correction is made, spray the surface clean, make sure anywhere that held standing water now drains properly, then let it dry or blower dry it. Then pour.

WHAT YOU CAN GO OVER, AND WHERE FLOCO DOESN'T GO.

One of FLOCO's greatest advantages is transforming a space without automatically starting over. Depending on condition and application, FLOCO can be installed over many properly prepared substrates: concrete, pavers, aggregate and river rock, certain tile, existing coatings, and other suitable surfaces. Every one still gets evaluated first.

SCOPE RULE · FOOT & LIGHT-WHEEL TRAFFIC ONLY

FLOCO is built for feet, not vehicles. Say yes to the spaces it's made for, and no to the ones it isn't.

- ✓ Pool decks, patios, lanais, walkways, entries, steps, balconies
- ✓ Playgrounds, splash pads, commercial and hospitality common areas
- ✓ Golf carts and light foot-traffic zones are fine
- ✗ No car or truck traffic: driveways, parking areas, car-care bays, boat ramps
- ✗ Anywhere vehicles turn, brake or park is out of scope, no exceptions

FLOCO Fred's take

Saying "that's not a FLOCO application" is a flex, not a lost sale. Quoting a driveway you know will fail is how you buy yourself a callback and a bad review. Protect the surface's reputation and it protects your wallet.

PART II · THE CRAFT · THE INSTALL IS THE MAGIC

05

hand-troweled, half an inch thick
THE INSTALL SYSTEM

This is the magic hour, the part a customer photographs and a neighbor covets. Prep earns the years. The install earns the gasp. Here's how a FLOCO surface gets laid, detailed and finished to a standard people can see.

HAND-TROWELED IS THE WHOLE DIFFERENCE.

Two things make FLOCO feel the way it does, and thickness is the bigger one. Half an inch is the standard, and it is not a detail. More material is what makes a surface softer underfoot and far more durable than the same product laid thin, which is exactly why nobody should be shaving it down to hit a price. The second thing is that it is hand-troweled by a trained specialist: consistency you control, texture you dial in, and one substantial layer worked by hand until it's even, seamless and right.

THE POUR & TROWEL · STEP 04 OF THE FLOCO PROCESS

- ☐ Mix to one consistency and keep your batches uniform, so color and texture never shift across the floor.
- ☐ Work in a plan. Start where it makes sense to finish clean, and keep a wet edge so seams disappear.
- ☐ Trowel for feel: plush and comfortable, never mushy. Consistent thickness, consistent texture, edge to edge.
- ☐ Build in drainage: the finished surface stays permeable, so water passes through the way it was planned to.

> "A thin coating is paint with a texture. Half an inch of hand-troweled FLOCO is a surface. Your customer's bare feet will know the difference on day one."

EIGHTEEN PERCENT.
TWENTY-SEVEN POUNDS AT A TIME.

Two numbers run the mixing station, and neither is negotiable. Get them wrong and it will not matter how good your prep was.

THE TWO NUMBERS

Polyurethane is 18% by weight of the rubber poured, so 27 lbs of rubber takes 4.86 lbs of polyurethane. Weigh it, do not eyeball it. And mix 27 lbs at a time and no more: heat and humidity make the material set up faster, a big batch going off on you is a ruined batch, and small batches keep you ahead of the weather.

THE WEATHER RULE

Pour at 55°F or above, and only if you can finish before any rain. Below 55 it will not cure, and rain landing on a surface you are still laying stops it bonding. Neither is fixable, so read the forecast for the whole pour window, not just the morning. Once it is down and troweled, rain is fine and actually speeds the cure up.

RUNNING THE STATION

- [ ] Mix poly and rubber for two minutes solid. Not ninety seconds because it looks mixed.
- [ ] Get the customer's approval on the blend before you premix a bag. Colour is the one thing you cannot undo.
- [ ] Start bagging while the crew is still setting up. Get ahead early and stay ahead all day.

FLOCO Fred's take

The quietest job on site is the one that decides the day. Put a steady person on the mixing station and let them get ahead. A crew waiting on bags is a crew troweling in a hurry.

THE DETAILS OF THE DETAILS.

Anyone can fill the middle of a floor. Specialists are made or broken at the edges. Edges, drains, steps, curves, transitions, coping and repairs are where craftsmanship becomes visible, and where the FLOCO name is truly earned. Slow down here. This is the part people run their eyes along.

COPING & EDGES · FINISH THEM LIKE A PRO

- [ ] Know the cut. Match the surface to the pool's edge: bullnose, cantilever, or a tile-edge finish. The right coping treatment makes the whole deck look intentional.
- [ ] Match the bracket. Where an edge takes a Schluter bracket, pick the profile that suits the cut and match the bracket colour to the blend. A bracket in the wrong colour is the first thing an eye lands on.
- [ ] Crisp transitions. Clean lines into coping, thresholds and drains. No ragged edges, no thin spots, no surprises.
- [ ] Color-match the coping. Where the customer wants the coping to match the surface, we recommend a color-matched 1-part epoxy paint (BEHR Premium 1-Part Epoxy), tinted to the blend, for a seamless, finished look.

FLOCO RULE

A flawless field with a sloppy edge reads as a sloppy job. The edge is the tell. Give coping, steps and drains the same patience you gave the pour, and the whole surface looks custom.

FINISH IT. THEN PROVE IT.

The last two steps of the FLOCO process are what turn a good install into a signed-off, photograph-ready FLOCO surface: detail, then final inspect. Never skip the walk. It's your quality gate and your first marketing moment rolled into one.

DETAIL & FINAL INSPECT · STEPS 05 AND 06

- ✓ Detail: clean edges, crisp lines, consistent texture, polished finishing. Fix the little things now, not after the review.
- ✓ Final inspect: walk the whole surface with fresh eyes. Drains draining, transitions tight, texture even, color uniform.
- ✓ Hand it off proud: the Final Touch clean makes the first impression. This is the surface the customer falls in love with.

FLOCO Fred's take

The final walk isn't a formality, it's where five-star reviews are born. Point out the details you sweated. When the customer sees how much you care about their edge work, they can't wait to tell people.

A perfect install in a boring color is a missed opportunity. Next, the part that makes a FLOCO surface unmistakably theirs.

PART II · THE CRAFT · THE INSTALL IS THE MAGIC

06

it shouldn't come from a color chart

COLOR BLENDS & CUSTOM INLAYS

This is where a surface becomes a signature. Custom blends, borders, sectioning and inlays are the difference between "rubber decking" and a space designed to belong exactly where it is. It's also your highest-margin, most-loved upsell.

YOUR SURFACE SHOULDN'T COME FROM A COLOR CHART.

Cheap installers offer a handful of stock colors. You offer a custom blend, mixed to complement the customer's architecture, finishes, tile, landscaping or branding. That's not a small thing, it's the entire reason a FLOCO surface feels designed instead of dropped in. No two spaces have to look the same, and yours won't.

Blends aren't picked off a swatch of percentages. They're chosen by feeling: warm and sandy, cool and modern, coastal and breezy, deep and dramatic. Show the customer directions, not part numbers, and let them fall for a vibe. Then you build the exact recipe to match it.

> FLOCO RULE
> Sell the look, build the recipe. The customer chooses a blend they love in the Design Studio. You translate it into the exact granule mix on site. They get art, you keep the craft.

INLAYS: THE "HOW DID THEY DO THAT."

A custom inlay is the moment a customer stops comparing you to anyone. Logos, artwork, emblems, animals, compass roses, a family crest, a resort's mark: a sea turtle in the shallow end, a koi by the spa, a compass at the entry. Borders and sectioning use different blends to define zones and add architectural detail. This is the work people photograph and post for you.

HOW AN INLAY COMES TOGETHER

- [ ] Design it in the Studio with the customer, so they see it before it exists and sign off on the look.
- [ ] Get the shape made. Custom art becomes a precise stencil, mold or printed inlay, so the edge is crisp and never freehand. Two ways to do it, covered later this chapter.
- [ ] Set it clean. Lay the inlay blends with tight edges and true color separation, then blend the field around it seamlessly.
- [ ] Charge for the art. Inlays, borders and sectioning are premium add-ons. Price them like the custom work they are.

Coping treatments, transitions and integrated features take it even further. The more of the space you design, the less any of it can be compared to a competitor's quote.

THE DESIGN STUDIO DOES THE DREAMING FOR YOU.

Don't ask a customer to imagine it. Design it with them. The FLOCO Design Studio, right in your Certified app, is where you explore colors, build custom blends, drop in inlays, choose coping and lay out borders, together, before a single granule is mixed. It turns "I think I want something different" into "yes, that, exactly that."

DESIGN THE WHOLE SPACE, NOT JUST A COLOR

- ✓ Build the blend to the vibe they love, then save it to their design board.
- ✓ Add the inlay, the border, the coping treatment, the LED. Let them design the dream.
- ✓ Send the board to the customer so they can re-fall-in-love, and show a spouse or an HOA board.

FLOCO Fred's take

Design is where the margin hides. A customer who helped design a sea turtle and a custom border isn't shopping three quotes anymore. They're waiting on you. We go deep on closing with the board in Chapter 9.

YOU BUILD THE BLEND.
YOU DON'T HIRE THAT OUT.

Nobody else in rubber surfacing hands the colour work to a designer. We did, and it is a large part of why a FLOCO surface looks the way it does. But it meant hiring for taste and hoping you found it. So we built that eye into a system. The person sitting with the customer builds the blend now, during the appointment, with no design background required.

HOW A BLEND GETS BUILT NOW

- [ ] Start from a base blend. A proven FLOCO base you know reads beautifully: a light cream, a dark cream, a grey. That base carries the surface.
- [ ] Add a pop that matches the space. One or two colours at small percentages, pulled from something already there: the pool tile, the stone on the house, the planting. That is what makes the blend theirs instead of ours.
- [ ] Add the companion if the job wants one. A second mix in the same colours at a different ratio. Usually the coping, but just as good on steps, a border, or a second space.
- [ ] Close it in the same visit. No second appointment, no waiting on a designer. Design it, price it, get them on the schedule.

FLOCO Fred's take

You are not picking colours, you are matching a house. Find the thing their eye already goes to and put a little of it in the floor. That is the difference between a nice deck and one they photograph.

FLOCO RULE

You are not required to start on a base, but we recommend it about as strongly as we recommend anything. Too many colours at odd ratios is how a surface goes from luxurious to cartoonish, and that is almost impossible to un-see. Base first, accents second, every time.

THE EIGHT BASES.
HUNDREDS OF JOBS, DISTILLED.

Eight starting points, not finished answers. Each carries a companion mix in the same colours at a different ratio. Start on one, shift the percentages, add a pop picked up from the space itself, and every customer ends up with a blend of their own.

Every one carries a photo of a finished job in that blend, so you show a customer a real floor, not a swatch. Photograph your own as you finish them.

mix it in front of them

THE BLEND STATION.
A SANDWICH BAG AND TWO SPOONS.

Designing on a screen is half of it. The other half is mixing the real granules in front of the customer and putting the bag in their hand. That is when they stop imagining and start owning it.

WHAT LIVES IN YOUR KIT

- ☐ A gallon baggie of each base colour, labelled with the RH code.
- ☐ Plastic sandwich baggies to mix and shake each blend in.
- ☐ A tablespoon and a half-tablespoon measure. That is the whole toolkit.

The branded baggie, and the blend label that goes on it

THE MEASURE

1 tablespoon = 10% of a batch. 10 tablespoons = one full blend. The percentage divides straight by ten, so you are measuring, not converting.

WORKED EXAMPLE

60%  RH65 Pale Grey   6 tbsp
25%  RH31 Cream       2.5 tbsp
15%  RH61 Light Grey  1.5 tbsp

Seal it, shake it, hand it over. Too cool? Mix a second bag a spoon warmer and set the two side by side in the sun.

FLOCO Fred's take

*Fill the sticker out in front of them. A bag with their project name on it is a sample they show their friends.

THE RECIPE, THE MATH, AND THE SHEET.

Every color has an RH code from the Rosehill TPV range, twenty one of them, and the code is what you order and what the crew mixes to. A blend is written as percentages against those codes. Say it that way every time and nobody has to guess: 40% RH31 Cream, 40% RH32 Brown, 20% RH61 Light Grey.

The Studio turns that recipe plus your square footage into a material order. Learn the method anyway, so you can always check the number the app gives you.

WORKING THE MATERIAL OUT BY HAND

Area 742 sq ft · Blend 40 / 40 / 20

1. Cover the area 742 ÷ 25 sq ft per bag = 29.7 → 30 bags
2. Split by percent 12 / 12 / 6 (40% / 40% / 20% of 30)
3. It divides evenly here. When it doesn't, round down and give the spare bag to the biggest leftover.

RH31 12 bags · RH32 12 bags · RH61 6 bags
Binder 742 ÷ 150 sq ft per pail = 5 pails

Never work out each color's square footage and round each up separately. That over-orders a bag on every color. Cover the area first, then split.

THE SHEET IS THE HANDOFF

The Studio produces one PDF that is both the customer's design board and the crew's build sheet. Attach it to the job. That is the whole handoff.

AND THE GLITTER, IF THE JOB HAS IT

2 oz a bag. 30 bags takes 60 oz, and you order by the pound, so 4 lb.

READING A SWATCH

Printing shifts colour, so treat these as names, not matches. The granule in your hand is the truth. Mix the real thing in front of the customer before anyone commits to a blend.

ONE JOB, SEVERAL SURFACES.

A FLOCO job is rarely one surface. There is the pool deck, then the front entry way, then the upstairs lanai off the bedroom. Treating all of it as one number is how a material order goes wrong, and how a crew ends up guessing which photo belonged where.

NAME EVERY SURFACE, THEN DESIGN EACH ONE

- [ ] Name them in the Studio the way the customer says them: "Pool deck", "Front entry way". Whatever they call it is what the crew should read.
- [ ] Each space gets its own square footage and its own blend. A front entry can be cooler and lighter than the pool deck. They do not have to match.
- [ ] Tag the photos to the space they belong to, so an entry-way reference is not read as a pool-deck instruction.
- [ ] Coping can carry a blend of its own. Give it one and the Studio converts linear feet by width into square feet so its material is counted.

> THE MATH STILL LANDS IN ONE PLACE
> Every space and the coping roll up into one material order. You order once for the whole job, and the sheet still breaks each space out so the crew mixes the right blend in the right area.

Do not list a sub-zone twice. If the lanai is already inside the deck measurement, it is part of that space, not a new one.

THE BEACH BLEND IS A TECHNIQUE, NOT A RECIPE.

This is the biggest "how did they do that" we have, and it is not a ninth base blend. A beach deck is sand at the back, a surf line, and water running into the pool. There is no fixed recipe, and that is exactly the point. Every colour and every proportion gets tuned to the space you are transforming, so no two are ever the same.

SAND, SURF LINE, WATER

HOW IT IS ACTUALLY DONE

- [ ] Chalk the zones onto the deck first. The customer decides how much of each colour they want, and you mark it out before anything is mixed.
- [ ] Only the sand is a blend. Start at 80% Beige, 10% Cream, 10% Brown, then move it lighter or darker to suit.
- [ ] Every other colour is solid. The surf line and the water are single colours, not blends.
- [ ] A slight ombré where each colour meets the next. That fade is the whole trick. Without it you get stripes.
- [ ] Measure each colour separately. That is your bag count. In the Studio each zone is simply its own named blend with its own footage.

FLOCO Fred's take

Chalk it out and walk them along the line before you mix a bag. Once somebody has stood where the water is going to be, you are not selling a pool deck any more.

HOW MUCH BEACH, HOW MUCH OCEAN?

That question is the whole sale, and the answer is different every time. The customer chooses how wide the shore runs, how the surf line curves, and how much of the deck is water. A small beach with a lot of ocean is a completely different room from a broad shore with a ribbon of water. Same method, same materials, and a result nobody else on their street has.

WHICH BEACH ARE THEY PICTURING?

Bahamas. Very light, almost white sand, and a pale aqua water. Bright, resort, barefoot.

Florida. A deeper, warmer sand and a deeper blue. Richer, and it sits better against a lot of Florida homes.

Ask the question before you ask anything about colour. Once they are describing a holiday, the conversation has stopped being about price.

MATCH THE WATER TO THEIR POOL

Look at the tone their pool water actually shows. A dark pool wants a deeper blue, a light one wants aqua. Get that right and the deck does not sit beside the pool, it runs into it. This is the detail people cannot name but always notice.

WHAT THEY GET TO CHOOSE

- ☐ The width of the shore, and how much deck the ocean takes.
- ☐ The shape of the surf line. Gentle curve, or something more broken up.
- ☐ The exact sand and water tones, tuned to the house and the pool.

CUT FILES:
THE PART CUSTOMERS NEVER SEE.

Two libraries, kept apart. The Design Studio is the menu a customer sees. The cut files are yours, in the Certified app, and never leave your side of the table.

WHAT IS IN YOUR CUT FILE LIBRARY

- ☐ Themed cut sheets. Many stencils nested on one sheet at a range of sizes. A Florida sheet carries dolphins, hibiscus, palms and anchors together.
- ☐ Our inlay library. Every design FLOCO has cut. The molds live at our shop, but you download the files and have your own made.
- ☐ The process sheet. Hand this to whoever makes your inlays so they work the files the FLOCO way.

ORDER THE SHEET, NOT THE SHAPE

You pay for setup, not just cutting. Nesting every stencil onto one sheet means you pay setup once, not per design.

THREE WAYS TO MAKE THE STENCIL

Engineer print · $. Staples or any print shop. Simple shapes you will never run again. Cheapest by a mile, single use.

Printed inlay · $$. A sign or wrap shop. Cheaper than CAD and holds up just as well. The go-to for one-off custom art.

Cut stencil or mold · $$$. A CAD shop. Most up front, reusable for years. Never pay CAD money for a design you use once.

WHERE TO START ON INLAYS

Sixteen designs are already in your app, under Inlay Cut Files. Start with the handful your customers actually ask for, nested onto one sheet.

THE UPSELL THAT ONLY SHOWS UP AFTER DARK.

Light pieces mount two ways. Set into the rubber itself, so by day the surface reads clean and at night the whole space turns on. Or hung on a wall or tiki bar. Same pieces, the customer's choice, and plenty of jobs use both. Nobody walks past a lit pool edge without stopping.

WHERE THE LIGHT GOES

- ☐ Perimeter runs. The pool edge, a spa, a step nose, or a curve cut into the surface. Makes a lanai look like a resort.
- ☐ Patterns in the surface. Stars, a zigzag, a border. Cut into the design and lit from inside, so the light is part of the floor.
- ☐ Light pieces, either way. Pool Life, Tiki Time, or any wording they like. Set into the surface during the pour, or hung on a wall afterwards. The easiest yes in the catalogue.

FLOCO RULE

Anything going into the surface has to be on the build sheet before install day. The wire runs before the pour and cannot be added later without opening the surface back up. Wall-mounted pieces are the exception, and make an easy second sale later.

ORDERING THE LIGHT PIECES

Custom pieces are ordered direct from Wrap-Tek. Send them your artwork or the wording the customer wants, and Jesse walks you through size and lead time on the call.

Jesse Taylor, Owner · designs@wrap-tek.com · 239-221-9727

IT GOES IN ON PREP DAY.

Lighting is the one upsell with a hard deadline attached. The wire runs under the rubber, so the day the rubber goes down is the day that decision is closed for good. Sell it at the design meeting or you will not sell it at all.

WHEN IT GOES IN

Prep day. Lights and wire are installed on prep day, and you confirm they work before any rubber is poured. Finding a dead run afterwards means opening the surface back up.

THE REST OF THE SPEC

- [ ] Wire routing: under the rubber.
- [ ] Transformer: a 110 transformer, carrying up to 90 linear feet of 24-volt lighting, segmented.
- [ ] Waterproofing: the lights sit in waterproof, sealed channels.
- [ ] Who wires it: a licensed and insured electrician. Not your crew.
- [ ] Control: remote.

PUT IT ON THE BUILD SHEET

If lighting is not written on the build sheet, the crew will not run wire on prep day, and by the time anyone notices it is too late. The build sheet is the only thing standing between a sold upsell and a missed one.

FLOCO Fred's take

Wall-mounted pieces are the forgiving ones. Those can go up any time, which makes them the easy call six months later when the customer has been staring at that blank wall by the tiki bar.

THEY BUY THE TILE.
YOU SET IT IN.

Mosaic tile inlays are the simplest premium add-on in the whole system, and one of the few where the customer happily pays someone else for the material. A turtle by the steps, a compass rose at the entry, a school of fish across the shallow end. Customers fall for them instantly, and setting one takes almost nothing extra out of your day.

SETTING IT UP IN YOUR MARKET

- [ ] Find a local tile and mosaic shop. Every market has one. You are not stocking anything, you are pointing customers at someone who already does this well.
- [ ] Send your customers to choose and buy. They pick what they love and pay the tile shop directly. The cost never touches your quote.
- [ ] Set up a referral arrangement. You are sending real buyers. Ask to be paid on the customers you send, the way we are.
- [ ] Install around the tile. Set it true, bring the surface right up to it clean. That is the whole job.

> FLOCO RULE
> Note the mosaic on the build sheet before install day. The crew needs to know a tile is going in and roughly where, because setting a surface around one is a very different pour to filling a plain area.

The same thinking scales commercially. A resort crest or community logo laid straight into the surface is the work that wins the next property, because every guest who walks across it sees it.

RUN EVERY JOB OFF THE SHEET.

The Design Studio is not a brochure you show once and forget. It is where jobs get designed, documented and handed to your crew. Used properly it replaces a designer, a spec sheet, and most of the calls your team makes from the driveway. Use it on every job.

TWO DOCUMENTS, ONE DESIGN

Their copy. The photos they chose, your notes on each, then their blend shown as colour in plain language. It keeps them excited between signing and install.

Your copy. All of that plus the build sheet: blend by area with codes and percentages, square footage, coping cut and measurements, riser sizes, prep work, and the exact bag and bucket count.

Your customer never sees an order code, a quantity or the math. That stays yours.

PUTTING IT TO WORK IN YOUR BUSINESS

- [ ] Design it with the customer in the appointment, while they are excited and in front of you.
- [ ] Save your copy, the one titled design and build sheet. That is the version with the build pages.
- [ ] Attach it to the job in whatever software you already run: Housecall Pro, Jobber, ServiceTitan, a shared folder.
- [ ] Tell the crew the rule: open the attachment first. Everything is in it, so nobody guesses and nobody calls you from the driveway.

FLOCO Fred's take

Treat the Studio like your bible, friend. The companies that win with FLOCO are the ones whose every single job looks like FLOCO.

TWO WAYS TO BUILD AN INLAY.

You have already sold the inlay in the Studio. Here is how you actually put it in the floor. Almost every inlay is built one of two ways, a ready-made mold or a custom shape you cut yourself. Done right, both leave a crisp, photograph-worthy edge.

WAY ONE · MOLDS (YOUR COMMON DESIGNS)

- [ ] The design is a hard plastic mold set into the wet floor, left until the surface is dry, then removed and filled with the colours the customer chose.
- [ ] Carry multiples of your most-used molds. Running several at once keeps the crew moving instead of waiting on one to free up.
- [ ] Remove with a razor blade and a long flathead screwdriver. Cut around the mold with the razor first, especially on detailed designs, so it lifts clean and you never rip the surrounding floor.
- [ ] Keep your tools clean. They live in wet rubber, and rust on a blade or driver can transfer straight into a fresh inlay.

WAY TWO · CUSTOM INLAYS (ANY LOGO OR ART)

- [ ] Print the design on thick paper (Staples does it cheap), cut it out with scissors, and trace it onto the floor with a marker.
- [ ] Cut the shape from the cured floor with a Dremel. Carry two so a dead battery or a bit change never stops the job.
- [ ] Vacuum the cut before you pour. No dust in the fresh rubber going into the inlay, or the colour edge will never look clean.

FLOCO Fred's take

The inlay is the photo that sells your next three jobs. Slow down on the edge and keep it clean and it looks like magic. Rush it and it looks like a sticker.

GET THE COLOUR RIGHT THE FIRST TIME.

The colours are the customer's call, but a few field rules keep an inlay looking custom instead of busy, and keep you from driving back to redo it.

THE COLOUR RULES THAT SAVE CALLBACKS

- [ ] Ombré: keep it to two or three colours. Anything more starts to look busy and loses the effect.
- [ ] Let them see it dry. If a customer is torn, show them the dry material so they see the true colour before it goes down. It is the easiest way to avoid a "can you change it" trip later.
- [ ] Carry the full colour tub. Keep a 3-gallon tub with all 23 colours on the job so you can adjust anything on the spot instead of scheduling a return.

FLOCO RULE

Decide the colours with the customer, on site, using real dry material, and get a yes before you pour. The floor is the one thing you cannot casually redo, so the confirmation comes first.

WHERE YOUR INLAYS COME FROM.

You do not have to cut every design yourself. FLOCO's own inlay guy, Jesse at Wrap-Tek, will customize and build your design inlays and your design light-up pieces for you, then ship them right to your door, ready to set. Send him the artwork or the wording and he handles the rest.

TWO WAYS TO SOURCE A DESIGN INLAY

- ☐ Done for you, by Jesse. Send Wrap-Tek the artwork or the customer's wording. Jesse builds the inlay, and any light-up pieces, and ships it to you. He walks you through size, options and lead time right on the call.
- ☐ Keep it local. Prefer a shop near you, or already have someone? Jesse provides a simple spec and materials sheet so a local vendor can make your inlays to the exact FLOCO spec. Same quality, sourced your way.

Jesse Taylor · Wrap-Tek · designs@wrap-tek.com · 239-221-9727 · Cape Coral, FL

FLOCO Fred's take

Use Jesse for the showpieces and the light-ups, keep a local shop for the simple stuff, and you are never the bottleneck on your own art. Either way the spec is the spec, so the floor always looks like FLOCO.

07

calm crews finish clean

PRODUCTION & PROBLEM-SOLVING

Skill lays a beautiful floor. Systems let you do it again next week, on time, in the Florida heat, without the wheels coming off. This is how you run the job, read the weather, and fix the things that occasionally go sideways.

RUN THE JOBSITE LIKE IT'S A STAGE.

A FLOCO install is part craft, part choreography. The best crews aren't the fastest, they're the calmest, because they've planned the day before they show up. Material staged, weather checked, sections mapped, timeline honest. When the site is calm, the finish is flawless. When it's chaos, it shows up in the edges.

BEFORE YOU POUR

- [ ] Check the weather window. Heat, humidity and rain all affect cure. Plan the pour around it, don't fight it.
- [ ] Keep material cool and shaded. Binder that overheats or sits with the lid open can bubble and ruin a finish.
- [ ] Work in sections on larger surfaces, so you keep a wet edge and never rush a whole floor at once.
- [ ] Protect the home. Mask coping, glass and landscaping. Cleanup is part of the craft, not an afterthought.

Give the surface the time it needs to cure before traffic. Rushing a customer back onto a green floor is how a perfect install becomes a callback.

WHEN SOMETHING'S OFF, FIX IT RIGHT.

Even great installers hit the occasional issue. What separates a specialist is knowing that FLOCO is repairable by design, and handling it honestly instead of hoping nobody notices. Individual areas can often be professionally opened and repaired rather than replaced, which is a genuine advantage almost nothing else in this category offers.

COMMON ISSUES · THE HONEST FIX

- ✓ An isolated flaw: a section can be professionally opened and repaired, then blended back in. That's a feature, use it.
- ✓ Texture or color drift: almost always a mixing or batching miss. Consistency is prevention. Keep batches uniform.
- ✓ An edge or transition that isn't crisp: detail it before final inspect, never after the customer's already seen it.
- ✗ Future substrate movement can still occur beneath any surface. Set that expectation honestly up front, in writing.

The goal is never "no problems ever." It's "no problem the customer had to worry about." Catch it, own it, fix it clean.

PROTECT THE FINISH, AND THE CALENDAR.

Production is a balancing act between speed and standard, and the standard always wins. Build a schedule that lets each job breathe, and underpromise the timeline so you can overdeliver the finish. A crew that's always behind cuts corners you can see.

KEEP PRODUCTION HEALTHY

- [ ] Quote realistic dates, then beat them. "Thursday" that finishes Wednesday builds trust. The reverse breaks it.
- [ ] Don't stack jobs so tight that weather or a repair blows up the whole week. Leave slack on purpose.
- [ ] Photograph everything. Before, during, after. It's your marketing, your record, and your proof if a question ever comes up.

FLOCO Fred's take

Booked out three weeks and doing it right beats booked out never and doing it fast. Scarcity plus quality is a pricing strategy. Let them wait a little. The best things are worth it.

PART III · THE BUSINESS OF FLOCO

08

price like the premium you are

PRICING & PROFIT

You're the only genuine FLOCO for miles. Price like it. This chapter is about charging for the value you actually deliver, protecting your margin, and turning one install into years of income.

PRICE THE VALUE, NEVER THE MATERIAL.

The fastest way to go broke doing beautiful work is to price it like a commodity. FLOCO isn't a commodity, and neither are you. You're a certified specialist installing the one genuine FLOCO surface in your territory, backed by a national standard. That's a premium, and premiums are priced on the value delivered, not on the cost of the granules in the bag.

Set your own rates for your market, because your costs, your competition and your area are yours. But set them from a position of confidence, not fear. The goal is a price that reflects the dream you deliver and the years it lasts, then holding it without flinching.

> FLOCO RULE
> Never compete on being the cheapest. There's always someone dumb enough to go lower, right up until they go under. Compete on being the only one who can do this, because you are.

ONE CUSTOMER, PAID THREE TIMES.

Here's the math that changes everything: a FLOCO customer isn't one sale. Priced right, one "yes" pays you at the install, again on the cleaning membership, and again at every reseal for as long as they own the home. Stack those revenue lines and your business stops living job-to-job.

THE INSTALL & THE DESIGN UPSELLS

The install is the anchor. Then the margin-makers: custom inlays, borders, LED lighting, coping treatments. Design more of the space and the ticket grows while the customer thanks you for it. Take a design deposit to lock color and calendar.

THE RECURRING RIVER

The cleaning division (Chapter 11): Freshen-Up at $1.50/sq ft, the FLOCO Fresh membership at $125 every other month, and reseals over the life of the floor. One install becomes years of income.

FLOCO RULE

Quote the install knowing the reseal and the membership are coming. The lifetime value of a FLOCO customer is many times the first invoice. Price, and treat them, like you know that.

KNOW YOUR NUMBERS. THEN PROTECT THEM.

A premium price with sloppy costing is just a bigger way to lose money. Know your real cost per job, genuine materials, labor, overhead, waste, and build your price up from there to the margin you actually want to keep. Then defend that margin like it's oxygen, because it is.

PROTECTING PROFIT · DO & DON'T

- ✓ Anchor high, then offer good / better / best with inlays, LED and coping.
- ✓ Take a design deposit. It reserves the color and the calendar and filters the tire-kickers.
- ✓ Track every job's true cost so you're pricing from data, not hope.
- ✗ Don't discount the craft. It insults the work and trains the customer to push.
- ✗ Don't skip genuine materials to protect a bad quote. Requote instead.

SET YOUR OWN NUMBERS HERE

- ☐ Install pricing varies by market, so we don't print a rate. Work your true cost, add your target margin, and write your standard per-square-foot install price and minimum job in the back of this book. Then hold them.

PART III · THE BUSINESS OF FLOCO

the surface sells itself. you close.

SELLING FLOCO RUBBER SURFACING

You already close deals for a living. This isn't a sales course. It's the handful of moves that make selling the one surface nobody else in your market can touch feel almost unfair.

YOU'RE NOT JUST SELLING A SURFACE. YOU'RE SELLING THE ONLY ONE.

You've signed more deals than you can count, so we'll spare you the discovery-call theater. What changes now is not how you sell. It's what you're selling: the only genuine FLOCO surface for miles, carrying a badge and a promise that literally no one else in your territory is allowed to put on the table. That is not a harder sale. It's the easiest premium you'll ever close, as long as you sell the right thing.

The right thing is never the rubber. Homeowners don't lie awake wanting "a half inch of poured EPDM." They want the feeling of the finished space, and they want it from someone they trust. Sell that, and price stops being a fight.

FLOCO RULE

Lead with the outcome and the exclusivity, never the square footage. The second you're talking price per foot, you've turned a dream into a commodity, and commodities get haggled.

> "Sell the vacation, not the plane ticket. Nobody wants the flight. They want the beach."

STACK THE VALUE UNTIL THE PRICE FEELS SMALL.

Every great sale is the same quiet math in the customer's head: how badly do I want this, how sure am I it'll work, and what's it going to cost me in time and hassle. Your whole job is to make the wanting huge and the risk tiny. FLOCO hands you every ingredient.

THE FLOCO VALUE STACK · SAY ALL FOUR

- ✓ The dream: resort-soft underfoot, cool in the sun, safe for kids and grandma, and the best-looking backyard on the street.
- ✓ The certainty: a certified specialist, genuine materials, real jobs a mile away to go touch, and a written material warranty from the supplier behind you (see Chapter 12).
- ✓ The speed: installed in days, not a summer of demolition and dust.
- ✓ The ease: you handle everything. They pick a color and go back to enjoying their home.

Raise the top two, shrink the bottom two, and the number at the end feels like a bargain for what they're getting. That's not a trick. It's just telling the whole truth in the right order.

FLOCO Fred's take

Get them to feel their bare feet on it. "Picture Sunday morning, coffee in hand, no hot concrete, no cracked pavers, the kids running around and you not flinching." Sell the feeling and the rest sells itself.

DON'T PITCH. DIAGNOSE.

The fastest way to lose a premium sale is to show up talking. Walk the space with them first. A great specialist sounds more like a doctor than a salesperson: ask, listen, and let them tell you exactly what to sell them. Aim to listen about eighty percent of the time. People talk themselves into things they'd never let you talk them into.

THE DISCOVERY WALK · ASK THESE ON SITE

- ☐ "What do you hate about it right now?" Cracks, weeds, heat, slick when wet, the yearly resealing headache.
- ☐ "Who's out here the most?" Little kids, grandkids, aging parents, the dog. Barefoot? That's your safety and comfort story.
- ☐ "How do you want it to feel?" Let them describe the dream in their own words, then hand it back to them.
- ☐ "How long are you staying in the home?" Once-and-done permanence lands hard with people who are here to stay.

By the time you've walked the space, you haven't quoted a thing, and they already believe you understand their yard better than they do. Now you're not a vendor. You're the expert they were hoping to find.

THE DESIGN STUDIO IS YOUR CLOSER.

This is the move most contractors will never have, and it's the one that ends the sale before you ever say "so, what do you think?" Pull up the FLOCO Design Studio and build their space with them. Let them pick the blend, drop in an inlay, add the LED, choose the coping. The instant they see their space transformed on the screen, the decision stops being logical and becomes emotional. And emotional decisions don't shop around.

> FLOCO RULE
> Nobody says no to a dream they just helped design. Co-create the surface on the board, and the close walks over and sits in your lap.

Send the finished design board to both of you. Now they can show a spouse, an HOA board, or a neighbor, and every time they open it, they're re-selling themselves. While the board is open is also the natural moment to let them add the things that make the job bigger and the space better: a custom inlay, LED lighting, matching the surrounding coping, and a cleaning plan to keep it flawless. You're not upselling. You're finishing their vision.

FLOCO Fred's take

The board is where "I'll think about it" goes to die. When someone has spent twenty minutes designing their own backyard, they already own it in their head. You're just handling the paperwork.

PRICE IS A VALUE PROBLEM, NEVER A NUMBER PROBLEM.

When someone flinches at the price, they're not telling you it costs too much. They're telling you they haven't felt the value yet. So don't go down on price. Go back up the value stack. And always, gently, put the real alternative on the table: the cost of doing nothing.

Doing nothing isn't free. It's paying to patch failing pavers again, living with the hot, slick surface another summer, and watching it look tired while the neighbor's brand-new FLOCO surface turns heads. Framed against redoing pavers twice over the years, a once-and-done FLOCO surface is the cheap option. It just doesn't look like it on day one.

HOLDING YOUR PRICE · DO & DON'T

- ✓ Anchor high, then offer good / better / best with inlays, LED and coping.
- ✓ Sell certainty: certified, genuine materials, a written material warranty.
- ✓ Take a design deposit to lock the color and the calendar.
- ✗ Don't apologize for being the premium. You are the premium.
- ✗ Don't discount the craft. It insults the work and trains them to push.
- ✗ Don't quote a number before they've seen their board.

And remember what one "yes" is really worth: it's not a single install. It's the install, then years of cleanings, then the reseal cycle. One customer pays you three times. Price like you know that.

what to actually say

EVERY OBJECTION IS A DOOR, NOT A WALL.

An objection means they're still in the conversation. Answer it warmly, answer it the same way every time, and never answer it by dropping your price.

"That's more expensive than I expected."

"Totally fair, and we're upfront about it. Our price includes the detailed prep, the hand-troweled craftsmanship and genuine material, things other companies charge for later or skip entirely. The material carries a written warranty from the supplier. You're making an investment, not a quick fix."

"I saw rubber surfacing cheaper."

"Common, and the difference is always what's included. The cheaper quotes usually skip proper prep and custom design. I'd rather be transparent with you now than have you find out in two summers."

"My neighbour's rubber surface cracked."

"That happens when an install is rushed, laid too thin, or the prep gets skipped. Our prep and our thickness are built to prevent exactly that. It's the whole reason we do it the slow way."

"We're not ready to spend that right now."

"Totally understand, and you don't have to do it all at once. Let me walk you through the payment options we offer, so you can enjoy the space this season and pay for it over time."

Only use this one if you actually offer financing. Never promise terms you can't deliver.

"We want to look at other surfaces first."

"I'd want to see options too. Let me set up a walk of a finished job nearby so you can stand on it before you decide. Nothing sells this like feeling it underfoot."

FLOCO Fred's take

Say these out loud until they sound like you and not like a script. The words matter less than not flinching.

ASK FOR IT. WARMLY.

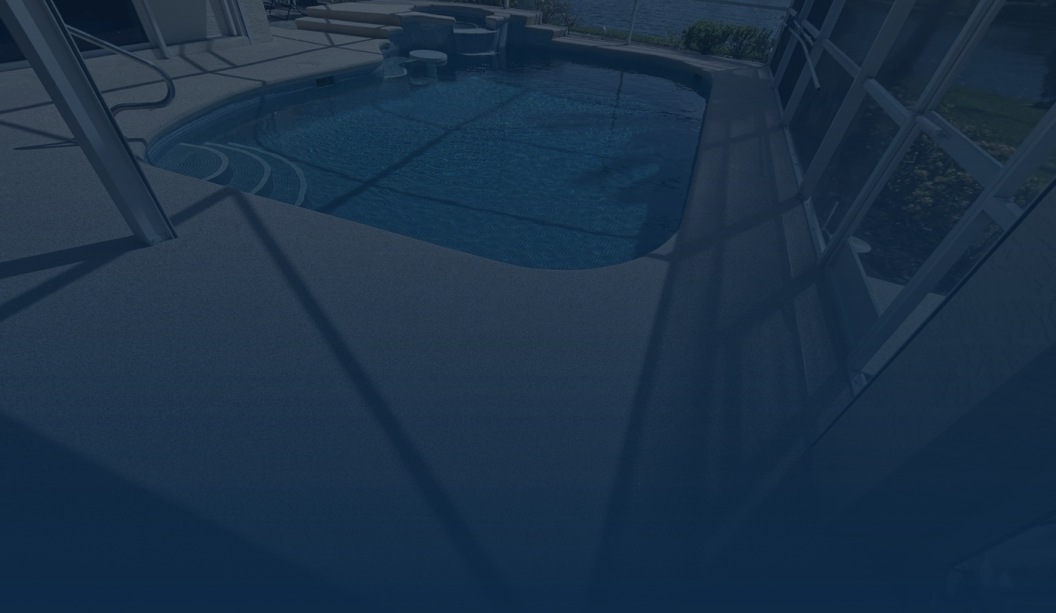

Here's where a lot of great people fumble the ball on the one-yard line: they build the whole dream, then get shy at the end. Don't. You're not being pushy, you're being the expert who's done this a hundred times and knows exactly what's next. The FLOCO close is warm, certain, and assumptive.

"Which blend are we going with, the coastal or the charcoal?" "Want me to lock your design in and get you on the calendar?" Then hand them the design deposit like it's the most normal thing in the world, because it is. The deposit reserves their color and their spot, and it turns a maybe into a plan.

> FLOCO RULE
> The badge closes for you. In a world of cheap-guy contractors, homeowners ask for the certified specialist by name. Wear it, say it, and let it do the heavy lifting.

YOU ALREADY KNOW HOW TO SELL. NOW YOU'RE SELLING THE BEST THING ON THE BLOCK.

Next up, marketing: how to make sure the phone is already ringing before you ever walk a single backyard.

PART III · THE BUSINESS OF FLOCO

10 time to get famous

HOW TO MARKET FLOCO

You didn't get certified to sit next to a quiet phone. A FLOCO surface sells itself once people see it. Your only job is making sure people see it.

YOU ALREADY KNOW HOW TO SELL. LET'S TALK FLOCO.

We didn't hand you this badge because you needed a marketing lecture. You run circles around your competition already, that's exactly why we chose you. So we'll skip the "what's a funnel" snooze-fest and get straight to the good stuff: how to market this one gorgeous thing, FLOCO rubber surfacing, in your own backyard. The little tricks. The plays that quietly print money. The stuff we learned the hard, expensive way so you don't have to. Grab a coffee. (Or a margarita. We don't judge. 🍹)

> "The goal was never 'some leads.' It's more leads than you can handle, so you finally get to be the one who's picky."

Here's the truth that stings a little, though: the best installer in town who nobody's heard of loses to the average installer everybody's heard of. Every single time. You're already great, we made sure of that. So all that's left is getting known. Great + Known is unstoppable, and it's closer than you think.

Marketing isn't a thing you do when work is slow. It's the engine that makes sure work is never slow. Run it every week, in good times especially, and you'll build a pipeline that lets you raise prices, fire bad customers, and take Fridays off.

FLOCO RULE

Every finished job is a marketing event, not just a paycheck. If you drive off from a gorgeous install without a sign in the yard, a reel on your phone, and door-hangers on the block, you left money on the table.

THE FLOCO 1-2 PUNCH: DIRECT + SOCIAL.

Two engines. Run both. Direct marketing goes and grabs people: signs, door-hangers, networking. Social marketing makes them come to you: reels, before/afters, reviews, group posts. Contractors who pick one always limp. You're going to sprint.

"BLITZ THE BLOCK" · DO THIS ON EVERY JOB

- [ ] Plant an A-frame at the curb the day you start. "Transformation in progress."
- [ ] Door-hang the 20 closest homes: "we're transforming your neighbor's space this week."
- [ ] Film the reveal. Post it that night. Tag the town.
- [ ] Leave a yard sign two weeks. Pay the customer $50 or a free cleaning to keep it up.

OWN YOUR LOCAL INTERNET.

Be local and active on every platform, Instagram, TikTok, Facebook, all of it, because your next customer could be on any of them. That said, one channel punches above its weight for this exact audience: local Facebook groups. Homeowners, HOA boards and property managers live in them, your town has 10 to 30 you're not in yet, and most of the industry ignores them. Show up everywhere, and go deep where your buyers gather.

And don't stop at Facebook. Nextdoor is built for exactly this, neighbors asking neighbors who to hire, so plant your flag there. Claim and work your Yelp, your Google Business Profile, and the local directories (Angi and the rest) too. Wherever someone might search for a contractor, they should find you, five stars and all.

FLOCO Fred's take

Don't be a walking billboard, be a human. Post the messy middle, the reveal, the happy customer's face. People buy from people they feel like they already know. That's the whole game.

STRAIGHT TALK · READ THIS TWICE

FLOCO does not run paid ads in your territory. That market is yours to own, which means you market FLOCO through your business. Here's exactly what we will and won't do:

- ✓ We send you every lead that comes to us from your territory.
- ✓ We add you to our national certified-installer campaign.
- ✓ We spotlight and market you across our channels.
- ✗ We do not fill your calendar for you.

The specialists who treat FLOCO like a lead vending machine struggle. The ones who market their own business like their livelihood depends on it, because it does, own their market. Be the second kind.

GREAT + KNOWN = UNSTOPPABLE. YOU'RE ALREADY GREAT. NOW GO GET KNOWN.

This is the highlight reel. The rest of this chapter goes deep: the content calendar, Meta Business Suite, local SEO and Google Business Profile, AI in search, the referral engine, and every little trick that fills a schedule.

YOUR PHONE IS A PRINTING PRESS.

You don't need an agency or a studio. You need the phone in your pocket and a job that already looks incredible. Rubber surfacing is a visual product, which means it practically markets itself if you just point a camera at it. Post consistently and the algorithm becomes your best salesperson, for free.

WHAT TO POST · STEAL THIS CALENDAR

- [ ] The reveal reel. Before, the messy middle, then the gorgeous after. This is your bread and butter. Film it on every job.
- [ ] The satisfying detail. A trowel pass, a crisp inlay edge, water beading and draining through. People watch these on loop.
- [ ] The happy customer. Their face, their words, their bare feet on the new surface. Real people sell.
- [ ] The educational one. "Why rubber stays cool," "why we prep like this." Teaching builds trust and finds buyers.

FLOCO RULE

Use real footage of your real work. Not stock, not somebody else's job. Authentic beats polished every time, and it's the one thing your competitor can't copy.

BE IMPOSSIBLE NOT TO FIND.

Social makes people want you. Search is where they go to hire you. When a homeowner three streets over finally types "pool deck resurfacing near me," your business should be the first thing they see, glowing with five stars. That's not luck, it's a checklist.

OWN YOUR LOCAL SEARCH

- [ ] Claim your Google Business Profile and load it with photos, services and your service area. This is the single biggest local-search lever there is.
- [ ] Get on Nextdoor, where neighbors literally ask neighbors who to hire. Plant your flag and be helpful.
- [ ] Claim Yelp, Angi and the local directories. Wherever someone searches for a contractor, you should be there, five stars and all.
- [ ] Keep your name, number and area identical everywhere. Consistency is what search engines and AI assistants trust.

More people now ask an AI assistant "who's the best rubber surfacing company near me" than you'd think. The businesses with consistent listings, real reviews and an active presence are the ones that get named. Be that business.

EVERY JOB MARKETS THE WHOLE STREET.

Here's the geography advantage almost nobody uses on purpose: these surfaces live outdoors, in neighborhoods, where everyone can see them. One gorgeous install is a billboard the whole block drives past. Your job is to make sure they know who did it.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD PLAY · EVERY SINGLE JOB

- [ ] A-frame at the curb the day you start: "Transformation in progress."
- [ ] Door-hang the closest 20 homes: "We're transforming your neighbor's space this week."
- [ ] Yard sign for two weeks. Pay the customer $50 or a free cleaning to keep it up.
- [ ] Ask for the referral warmly: "If a neighbor would love this, we take great care of the people you send us."

And respond to every review personally, with a real, specific, warm note. Future customers read your replies more closely than the reviews themselves. A business that clearly cares is a business people trust with their backyard.

FLOCO Fred's take

Finish one job beautifully and you've started marketing to twenty more, for the price of a yard sign and a stack of door-hangers. This is the cheapest, highest-return marketing on earth. Do it every time.

BUILD A BRAND, NOT JUST A COMPANY.

Here is the difference that changes everything. A company sells a service. A brand earns a feeling. Anybody can start a company. A brand is what makes people trust you before you have said a word, remember you the moment they need you, and feel good and safe handing you their home. Big companies spend a fortune trying to buy that trust. You get to build it for real, the honest way, right where you live.

HOW A BRAND ACTUALLY GETS BUILT

- [ ] Be everywhere that matters locally. Partner with other local businesses, show up at community events, sponsor the little league. People call the name they keep seeing in good places.
- [ ] Make every person a walking billboard. Clean trucks, branded shirts, a crew that says thank you. Every one of your guys is repping your brand on every street they park on.
- [ ] Lead with heart. Do right by people even when it costs you a little. Be the company your town is proud to recommend, and soon you will be a little bit famous in your own backyard.

THE BEST WEEK OF OUR WHOLE YEAR

Every Christmas, FLOCO gives away a full rubber surfacing project to someone in our community who truly needs it. It is genuinely the highlight of our entire year, and it says more about who we are than any ad ever could. Find your own version of that. It always comes back to you tenfold.

FLOCO Fred's take

Put your heart on your sleeve and lead with a strong moral compass, and your brand will thrive. Good people build good brands, and you are one of them. Trust us, we know. ❤️

YOUR WHOLE TOOLKIT, IN YOUR POCKET.

Everything in this chapter gets easier because you're not doing it from scratch. Your FLOCO Certified app carries a Marketing Vault: ready-to-post reels, before-and-afters, overlays and ad creative, plus the Design Studio that closes your sales. Post from it, design from it, sell from it. We built the hard part so you can focus on the work.

IN YOUR APP, RIGHT NOW

The Design Studio, the Marketing Vault, inlay cut files, materials ordering, the cleaning-division playbook, your brand kit, and this Playbook. One login: FLOCOFAM.

WANT YOUR OWN APP?

We can build a custom, fully-branded app for your company, your name, your work, your Design Studio, as a paid marketing add-on. It's the same platform powering FLOCO's own app. Just ask us.

GREAT WORK, SEEN BY EVERYONE. THAT'S THE WHOLE GAME.

You can fill a calendar. Now let's build the machine that keeps it full for years: the cleaning and reseal division.

PART III · THE BUSINESS OF FLOCO

11

one install, paid for years

THE CLEANING & RESEAL DIVISION

This is the part most installers never build, and it's the quiet money machine. One customer, one install, then years of cleanings and reseals. Here's exactly how we run ours, so you can stand up yours.

THE SMARTEST THING YOU'LL BUILD AFTER THE INSTALL.

The install is the wedding. The cleaning division is the marriage. It's steady, it's high-margin, and it keeps you standing in your customer's backyard for years, which happens to be the exact spot where the next referral, the next reseal, and the next install all come from. Most contractors pour a surface and disappear. You're going to pour a surface and stay.

Installs are wonderful and lumpy. Some months are packed, some are quiet. A cleaning division smooths the whole thing out with revenue you can actually count on before the month starts. It's the difference between a business that rides the roller coaster and one that just prints.

> FLOCO RULE
> An install pays once. A cleaning plan pays forever. Every surface you finish is a recurring customer waiting to happen. Sign them up before you pull out of the driveway.

Here's the model that makes it real: get roughly one in three of your install customers onto a membership, and you've built a five-figure river of recurring revenue that flows every single year, on top of your installs and before you sell a single new job.

THE SERVICE MENU. STEAL OURS.

This is how we've priced and packaged ours. Use it as your baseline, then adjust the numbers for your own market. The point isn't to copy us to the penny, it's to walk in on day one with a real menu instead of guessing.

FLOCO Final Touch The post-install hand-off clean. Included with every install, it's the customer's first impression of a finished FLOCO surface.	Complimentary included
FLOCO Freshen-Up The one-off maintenance clean that brings a surface back to like-new. Your everyday non-member service call.	$1.50 / sq ft retail
FLOCO Reseal & Refresh Premium restoration: a deep clean plus a fresh reseal. A higher rate applies on surfaces we didn't install.	$1 + $1 / sq ft typ. $1,200–1,500
★ FLOCO Fresh Membership Six cleanings a year, plus member reseals at 50–60% off retail. This is the lock-in, and the heart of your recurring revenue.	$125 every other month
Weed Control & Surface Prep Stops intrusion at the edges and preps the surface before service.	Crew-assessed on site
Spot Cleaning & Repair Targeted fixes for isolated stains, marks, or minor damage.	Crew-assessed on site
Mold & Mildew Relief Treats and helps prevent growth in shaded, damp zones.	Crew-assessed on site

Seven services, one rule: every job on the schedule is one of these. No "miscellaneous," no guesswork. A tight menu is what makes the whole division easy to run and easy to sell.

TWO LANES. PUSH EVERYONE TOWARD THE SECOND ONE.

Every cleaning customer rides in one of two lanes. Both make money. One of them makes it while you sleep.

LANE A · ONE-OFF RETAIL

Freshen-Up at $1.50/sq ft. Reseal & Refresh at $1 + $1/sq ft, typically a $1,200–1,500 ticket. Specialty work assessed on site. Great money, but it only shows up when they call.

LANE B · FLOCO FRESH MEMBERS

$125 every other month (that's six visits and $750 a year, automatically), plus member reseals at 50–60% off retail. Predictable, locked-in, and they never call a competitor again.

SELL THE MEMBERSHIP AT HAND-OFF · EVERY INSTALL

- [ ] At the Final Touch clean, while the surface looks perfect: "Want us to keep it looking exactly like this?"
- [ ] Frame it as protection, not a chore: their investment, kept flawless, on autopilot.
- [ ] Enroll them on the spot. The best time to lock a member is the day they fall in love with their new surface.

FLOCO Fred's take

Members aren't just revenue, they're your early-warning system. You're back at their place six times a year, which means you catch the little stuff before it's a big deal, and you're the first face they think of when a neighbor asks who did it.

THE CHEMISTRY IS SIMPLE. THE DISCIPLINE ISN'T.

Here's the beautiful part: you don't need a chemistry degree. The whole cleaning side runs on one recipe and a handful of habits. Get those automatic and you'll out-clean anyone.

FLOCO RULE · ONE RECIPE FOR EVERYTHING

1 ounce of chemical to 1 gallon of water. Let it sit 5 minutes. Then rinse it all the way out. That ratio and that dwell time are the same for every product on your truck. Simple to teach, hard to mess up.

THE WASH, DONE RIGHT

- ☐ Chemical first, then wash. Lay the diluted cleaner down before you touch it with water.
- ☐ Work in sections. On anything over ~250 sq ft, don't treat it all at once. Break it into 250-ish-foot sections, treat, wash, move on.
- ☐ Rinse until the bubbles quit. Soapy bubbles mean chemical is still in the floor. Keep going.
- ☐ Push the dirty water OUT of the cage. The floor is porous, so you won't get every drop, but never let that brown water seep back in.

PRESSURE WASHERS · THE RULE CHANGED

We used to forbid them. Not anymore. The extra muscle is what lifts most stains.

- ✓ Electric is preferred. If it's gas, keep it under 3,000 PSI.
- ✓ Never hold the nozzle right against the floor.
- ✗ See little "see-through flakes" lifting? You're too close and blowing out the dried glue. Back off, now.

TEACH EVERY CUSTOMER TO PROTECT THEIR OWN FLOOR.

Have this conversation on every single job. Coaching the customer on home care isn't giving away business, it's the opposite: a floor that stays gorgeous is a floor that sells your next ten. Give them the plan, then offer to do it for them.

THE HOME-CARE PLAN YOU HAND EVERY CUSTOMER

- [ ] Rinse the whole surface 4+ times a year. A hose and nozzle is perfectly fine for everyday care.
- [ ] Move anything that blocks the sun. Rugs, pool boxes, mats. Shaded, damp spots are where mold starts.
- [ ] Plants: a pot liner underneath, plus the mold and mildew prevention spray around them.
- [ ] Grills: a grill mat underneath, moved a few times a year.
- [ ] Welcome mats stay wet on the bottom. Flip them to dry every other month so they don't leave a green stain.

FLOCO Fred's take

Hand every customer a little bottle of the "spray and walk away" mold preventer and tell them to hit the edges three times a year. It costs you almost nothing and it's the reason their floor still looks new when their neighbor comes over asking who did it.

THE STAIN PLAYBOOK: THE BIG THREE.

Ninety percent of what you'll see is one of three things. Learn to name them on sight and you'll fix them in your sleep. Same recipe every time: 1 oz to a gallon, 5 minutes, rinse.

1 · MOLD & MILDEW

Spot it: green, black or brown staining. Where: the cage perimeter, near plants, under mats, along the drain, anywhere drainage is poor. Treat: the mold preventer (mildew and organic growth all cure the same), sit 5 min, wash off, pressure washer helps. Prevent: the "spray and walk away" 3x a year, and keep shaded spots dry.

2 · RUST

Spot it: brown, red or golden. Where: it never grows, it transfers from metal. Furniture feet, umbrella bases, hose fittings, hurricane shutters. Treat: FLOCO Fresh or CLR, sit 5 min, wash off. A pressure washer is a must, rust is stubborn. Prevent: plastic feet-covers, shutter caps, skip the cheap metal furniture.

> "Ninety percent of stains, three names, one recipe. The pro isn't the one with more chemicals. It's the one who knows what he's looking at."

EVERYTHING ELSE, AND THE FOUR YOU CAN'T FIX.

3 · Everything else. Calcium at leaky hoses, dried concrete from other trades, dirt, pet and food stains: if it isn't mold or rust, it's a job for the FLOCO cleaner and a pressure washer. That cleaner attacks just about anything on TPV rubber, so it never leaves your truck.

THE GUTTER TELL · WHAT THE PROS MISS

Clogged or rusty gutters above the lanai drip dirty water onto the floor and leave what looks like a rust or mold stain, anywhere water falls from above. Look up. Clean it with the FLOCO cleaner, and tell the customer to clear the gutters.

THE FOUR YOU CANNOT FIX · SAY THIS OUT LOUD

Some things cause permanent white, bleached-out discoloration. Our rubber and glue can't undo it. There's no fixing these, only preventing them:

- ✕ Bleach
- ✕ Acetone
- ✕ Nail-polish remover
- ✕ Pool chemicals

If it hits the floor, rinse it off immediately, and warn the pool guy, since most of this shows up on the coping edge where chemicals get poured in.

RESEALING: THE SERVICE THAT KEEPS A FLOOR ALIVE.

A reseal is a thinner version of the same glue that holds the floor together, packed with UV protection. It keeps the color looking rich, but more importantly it stops the surface from drying out. Under harsh Florida sun, that protection is the difference between a floor that lasts and one that fails early. This is recurring revenue that genuinely helps the customer, which is the best kind.

> FLOCO RULE · READ THE COLOR, NOT THE CALENDAR
> Check every floor at the 12 to 13 month mark. Most won't need it yet, and we never oversell. A well-kept, not-full-sun floor usually reseals around 18 months. The tell: the floor goes a shade lighter as the sun works on it. Lighter than original means it's time.

Schedule reseals off the installation date, because if you wait until a floor visibly "dries out," you've waited too long, and a bone-dry floor may not take a fresh seal properly. Catch it at "a shade lighter," never at "cracking."

FLOCO Fred's take

Reading a floor is a real skill, not a stopwatch. That's exactly why a FLOCO Certified name is worth more than a guy with a coatings kit. You're not guessing, you know what you're looking at.

HOW TO LAY A RESEAL. THERE'S NO UNDO.

Respect this one. A reseal can't be taken back, so a rushed job lives on the floor forever. Do it slow and do it right.

THE RESEAL, STEP BY STEP

- [ ] Prep the surface. Clean it and blow off every bit of fine debris. Glue traps anything underneath permanently, so it must be completely dry, not damp. Water and glue make white, bleach-like stains.
- [ ] Keep the buckets cool and shaded. Too hot or a lid left open and it bubbles on the floor and ruins it.
- [ ] Mix to one consistency. It's watery at the top, syrupy at the bottom. Pour slowly into a clean bucket until it's uniform.
- [ ] Start farthest from the door, work back out. A sunny day helps, laid product shines so you can see your coverage.
- [ ] Two rollers. Coat evenly, drip the excess onto a mat (never the floor), and keep a dry roller to soak up any spot with too much glue.
- [ ] Coping gets done separately with the hand roller. Cross a wet spot by accident? Roll over your footprints.

WATCH TYLER'S VIDEO

The exact rolling direction, technique, and the do's and don'ts are in Tyler's field video, plus his coping tips, in your FLOCO Certified app under the Cleaning Division.

Watch Tyler roll a reseal.

Scan it with your phone camera. Two minutes on the exact rolling direction, the technique, and how he does the coping by hand.

EPDM, AND THE ART OF THE WALK-AWAY.

Not every floor is yours to reseal, and knowing when to walk is what protects the reputation that lets you charge premium on everything else. Before you touch a surface someone else installed, ask what rubber is down.

THE RESEAL JUDGMENT CALL

- ✓ Anything we installed: reseal with confidence.
- ✓ Solid but dirty: clean it first, then reseal. No problem.
- ✓ Discolored by chemicals: you can help it last, but be clear you can't change the color.
- ✗ Holes or missing areas: walk away.
- ✗ EPDM: a cheaper rubber with no plastic coating, it breaks down fast. Tyler walks from about 75% of EPDM pools. Be honest, be careful.

And keep the good stuff on your truck: FLOCO's own proprietary cleaner, formulated for our surfaces, is part of what keeps a FLOCO floor looking FLOCO. Use it, sell it, and never run out.

RUN IT LIKE A PRO.

You've got the chemistry, the stains, and the reseal. The last piece is boring, and it's the piece most people skip: a cleaning division lives or dies on discipline, not talent.

THE FOUR HABITS THAT KEEP IT CLEAN

- [ ] Log every job as one of the seven services. Nothing off-menu.
- [ ] Invoice before you leave the site. Same day, every time. Money on the truck beats money in the mail.
- [ ] Shoot before-and-after photos on every visit. That's your marketing and your record.
- [ ] Auto-schedule the next member visit before you pack up. Never let a membership go quiet.

Do those four things on repeat and the division runs itself. Skip them, and a beautiful idea leaks out the bottom of the bucket.

TURN ONE JOB INTO A DECADE.

Sit with what this actually does to your business. A one-and-done contractor sells a surface and starts next month at zero. You sell a surface, and that same customer pays you again at the Freshen-Up, again on the membership, and again at every reseal for as long as they own the home. One yes. Years of income.

Stack a few hundred members over time and you've built something most contractors never taste: a business that's predictable. The kind you can hire against, plan around, and actually sleep on.

YOU DIDN'T JUST INSTALL A SURFACE. YOU STARTED A RELATIONSHIP THAT PAYS.

And the customer who stays with you for years? That's not just revenue. That's the raving fan the next chapter is all about.

make every job a fan
CUSTOMER EXPERIENCE

A FLOCO customer shouldn't just be satisfied. They should become the reason your next five jobs call you. Here's how you turn a great install into a raving, referring fan, and how you turn the rare angry one all the way around.

THE EXPERIENCE IS HALF THE PRODUCT.

You already install a surface most of your market has never seen the likes of. The trap is thinking the surface is the whole job. It isn't. People forget square footage and remember how you made them feel, and the feeling is what they repeat at the neighborhood barbecue. A five-star surface with a three-star experience gets you paid once. A five-star surface with a five-star experience gets you paid, reviewed, referred, and rebooked.

None of this is complicated. It's mostly just doing what you said, when you said, and treating their home like it's your mom's. But "simple" and "common" are not the same thing, and the contractors who actually do it stand out like a lighthouse.

> FLOCO RULE
> Underpromise the timeline, overdeliver the finish. Tell them Thursday and finish Wednesday. Show them a great result they half-expected and a level of care they didn't.

THE LITTLE THINGS THAT MAKE THEM TALK.

Word-of-mouth isn't luck. It's a series of small, deliberate moments that add up to "you have to call these people." Build these into every job until they're automatic.

THE FIVE-STAR CHECKLIST · EVERY INSTALL

- ☐ Confirm the day before with a friendly heads-up. Nobody likes a surprise crew.
- ☐ Respect the home. Protect the landscaping, keep the site tidy, and leave it cleaner than you found it.
- ☐ Walk the finished job together. Point out the details you're proud of. Pride is contagious.
- ☐ Leave a thank-you goodie bag and a simple care card. A small gift makes a big impression.
- ☐ Follow up in a week. "How are you loving it?" That one text writes half your reviews.

Ask for the review at the moment of peak happiness, the reveal, not three weeks later. And make it effortless: a QR code straight to your Google page beats "you can look us up sometime" a hundred to one.

FLOCO Fred's take

People don't review "good." They review surprised. The goodie bag, the follow-up text, the crew that swept the driveway, that's what makes someone stop scrolling and actually type five stars.

EVERY HAPPY CUSTOMER IS A MARKETING ASSET.

A raving fan isn't the end of a job. It's the start of the next three. Your job is to turn that goodwill into something that actually drives work: reviews, referrals, and the neighborhood effect.

Respond to every review, personally. Not "Thanks for the 5 stars!" but a real, warm, specific note. Future customers read those replies more closely than the reviews themselves, and a business that clearly cares is a business people trust with their backyard.

> FLOCO RULE
> Don't wait for referrals. Ask for them. "If you know a neighbor who'd love this, we take great care of the people you send us." Happy customers want to help. You just have to give them the opening.

And remember the geography of this business: these surfaces live in neighborhoods where everyone can see them. One gorgeous install, one yard sign, one reveal reel, and suddenly the whole block is wondering why theirs still looks like 1998. Finish one job beautifully and you've started marketing to twenty more.

WHAT YOU CAN ACTUALLY PROMISE.

"We stand behind our work," said plainly and meant, closes more than any discount ever will. But it only works if it is true, so be precise about what is being promised and by whom. There are two warranties on every job you install, they come from two different places, and neither of them is FLOCO Decking Systems.

THE TWO, KEPT STRAIGHT

- ✓ Your craftsmanship is warranted by your own company, for whatever period and on whatever terms you set. A year is a sensible place to start. This one is between you and your customer.
- ✓ The material is covered by the manufacturer's and supplier's written warranty in effect when you bought it, through American Recycling. Get the current copy, read it, and hand it to your customer.

Quote the material warranty only as the written document states it. Never round a number up, never say "lifetime," and never quote a figure from memory. If a customer asks how long it lasts, the honest answer is better anyway: point at a job you laid years ago and let them go stand on it.

HOW TO TALK ABOUT IT

- ✓ Lead with confidence: you use the system and the materials that earn it.
- ✓ Frame it as care, not fine print: "we stand behind our work."
- ✓ Tie it to the cleaning plan. A maintained surface is a surface that keeps its warranty.
- ✗ Don't oversell it into a promise you can't keep. Accurate beats impressive, every time.

TURN A PISSED-OFF CUSTOMER INTO YOUR BIGGEST FAN.

It's going to happen. Rarely, but it will. And here's the secret almost nobody believes until they see it: a problem handled beautifully creates more loyalty than no problem at all. The customer who watched you make it right is the customer who defends you forever.

THE TURNAROUND · L.A.S.T.

- ✓ Listen all the way to the end. Don't defend, don't interrupt. Let them get it all out.
- ✓ Acknowledge it and own your part. "You're right, that's not our standard, and I'm sorry."
- ✓ Solve it fast, and then go one step past fair. The extra step is what they remember.
- ✓ Thank them for telling you. A complaint is a gift, it's a chance to fix it before ten other people hear it.

When it genuinely isn't your install or it's outside what the surface can do, you can still be kind and clear. Explain it honestly, offer what help you can, and never get defensive. Calm and straight always wins the room.

FLOCO Fred's take

An angry customer isn't a threat, they're an opportunity in a bad mood. Stay warm, move fast, over-deliver on the fix, and you'll turn your worst review into your best story.

MAKE THEM FAMILY.

Everything in this chapter rolls up to one idea: a FLOCO customer isn't a transaction, they're a relationship you get to keep. The install introduces you. The experience earns you their trust. The cleaning plan keeps you in their life. And somewhere in there, they stop being a customer and start being the person who tells everyone they know about "their guy."

That's the whole flywheel. Treat people like family, do beautiful work, stand behind it, and stay in touch, and your business stops chasing customers and starts being chased by them.

A HAPPY CUSTOMER PAYS ONCE. A RAVING FAN PAYS FOR YEARS, AND BRINGS THE WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD.

Welcome to the part of the FLOCO family that never clocks out: the customers who become your best salespeople.

everything, in one place

YOUR TOOLKIT & UPHOLDING THE STANDARD

You've got the craft, the business and the voice. This is where it all lives day to day, and the promise that keeps the FLOCO name worth carrying. Let's send you off ready.

YOUR WHOLE BUSINESS, IN YOUR POCKET.

Everything in this book has a home: your FLOCO Certified app. It installs onto your phone, tablet or desktop like any app, no app store, and it updates itself. You sign in with your own email address and the program password FLOCOFAM. Your email is what makes the app yours: it fills your company name and details into every quote you send.

WHAT'S INSIDE YOUR APP

- ☐ Quotes: measure the job, price it, and send a quote on your own letterhead before you leave the driveway.
- ☐ The Design Studio: build blends, browse real FLOCO spaces, add inlays and coping, then send the board to your customer.
- ☐ Materials & ordering: turn any design board into an order to American Recycling with the bags already counted.
- ☐ My Jobs: every customer, every blend, every photo, and who is due a UV coat.
- ☐ The Marketing Vault, cut files, the cleaning playbook and this book, always with you.

SCAN TO INSTALL

Open it, then add it to your home screen.
flocolexi.github.io/floco-certified-app
Your email + password FLOCOFAM

INSTALL IT IN 20 SECONDS

iPhone: open in Safari, tap Share, then "Add to Home Screen."
Android: open in Chrome, tap the menu, then "Install app."

WANT YOUR OWN?

We'll build a custom, fully-branded app for your company as a paid add-on, same platform as ours. Just ask.

ONE JOB, START TO FINISH.

If you have never used an app like this before, relax. There is nothing to learn by heart and nothing you can break. Every job you will ever run moves through the same four screens, in the same order, and the app carries your work forward from one to the next so you never type a number twice.

1	2	3	4
QUOTE IT	DESIGN IT	ORDER IT	LOG IT
At the house	At the table	Before you leave	After the pour

THE ONE THING TO REMEMBER

The areas you measure become the blends you design. The blends become the order you send. The order becomes the job you log. Do them in order and the app does the rest.

NONE OF IT IS REQUIRED

You run your own company. If you already have a quote sheet that works, or you design your own way, keep doing that. These are here for the day you want them, not because we are telling you how to sell. Plenty of installers use the ordering and the job log and nothing else.

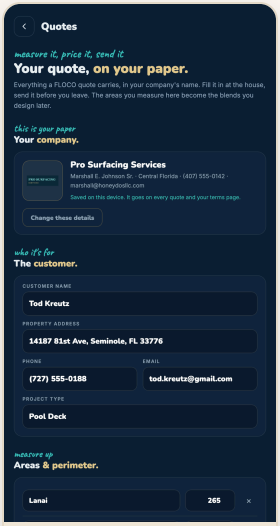

The next four pages walk you through one real job, tap by tap, with a picture of each screen so you can hold the book beside your phone.

FLOCO Fred's take

Do not practice on your first customer. Make up a fake job tonight and run it through all four screens. Twenty minutes, and you walk into that first appointment looking like you have done it for years.

STEP ONE.
QUOTE IT AT THE HOUSE.

Open the app and tap Quotes. This is where a job begins, standing in the customer's back yard with a tape measure.

THE QUOTES SCREEN

1. The very first time only, fill in your company. Upload your logo, add your name, phone and town, then tap Save my company.
2. After that it folds into a small card. Every quote you send carries it automatically. Tap Change these details if anything ever changes.
3. Type the customer's name and address.
4. Add each area you measured. Give it a name you would say out loud, like Lanai or Pool deck, then the square feet. Tap + Add an area for the next one.
5. Fill in the prep work and the design options you discussed.
6. Enter your price per square foot. The total works itself out.
7. Tap Preview to see exactly what the customer will see. When it looks right, tap Send the quote.

WHOSE QUOTE IS IT?

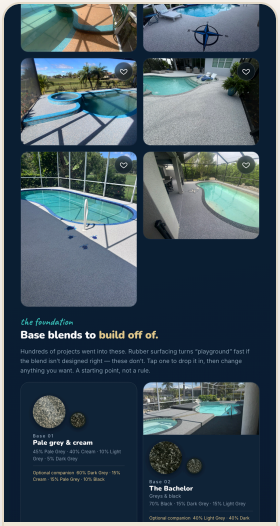

Yours. Your logo at the top, your name at the bottom, your terms. The customer contracts with your company and pays your company. FLOCO appears once, as the material you install.

FLOCO Fred's take

The app will never set your price. You know your market, your crew and your costs better than anyone. Put your number in and stand behind it.

STEP TWO.
DESIGN IT WITH THEM.

Tap Design Studio and sit down beside the customer. The areas you just measured are already waiting for you, so nothing gets retyped.

BASE BLENDS IN THE STUDIO

1. Scroll through the real FLOCO spaces together and let them point at what they love. This does more selling than anything you can say.
2. Scroll on to base blends. There are eight, and hundreds of finished projects went into them. Tap one to drop it straight in.
3. Each base has an optional companion blend for the coping that works beautifully alongside it.
4. Under Final blend decision, nudge the colours until the customer smiles. Add a colour, take one away, change the percentages.
5. Name the blend so your crew knows what goes where. Real names work best: Front porch, Harry's blend.
6. Add as many named blends as the job needs, then send the design board to the customer and to yourself.

> WHY START FROM A BASE BLEND
> Rubber surfacing turns to playground fast when the blend is not designed right. These eight do not. They are a starting point and never a rule, but we recommend them highly.

FLOCO Fred's take

Let them hold the phone. The moment a customer starts sliding the colours around themselves, they have stopped deciding whether to buy and started deciding what they want.

STEP THREE.
ORDER IT BEFORE YOU LEAVE.

Tap Materials. Every design board you have ever saved is listed here, and the app has already counted the bags for each one.

CHOOSING YOUR BOARDS

1. Look under Which blends are you ordering for? The design open in the Studio sits at the top. Your saved jobs are listed underneath, by customer name.
2. Tick the boards going on this order. Tick more than one and they go on a single delivery.
3. Check the bag count beside each colour. Tap a number to change it if you want it different. What you decide is what gets ordered.
4. The binder is worked out for you from the square footage.
5. Add anything else under Anything else on this order? Extra bags of a colour, or extra binder.
6. Add your delivery date and pallets, then tap Start the order email.
7. The email writes itself to your rep at American Recycling, in the format they expect. Read it over, then send it.
8. Glitter is a separate order. Scroll down to the glitter box and tap Start the glitter email. That one goes to Meadowbrook, in pounds.

> NOTHING IS ORDERED UNTIL YOU SEND
> The app only writes the email. It opens in your own mail app and sits there until you press send, so you can always change your mind.

FLOCO Fred's take

If two jobs are close together, put them on one order. Fewer deliveries, less freight, same material. That is money you keep.

STEP FOUR.
LOG IT WHEN IT'S DOWN.

Tap My Jobs. This is the step people skip, and it is the one that pays you twice.

MY JOBS

1. Tap Save the job you're working on. It takes the customer, the areas and the blend exactly as they are right now.
2. Tap the status pill to move the job along: Quoted, then Scheduled, then Installed.
3. The day you mark it Installed, the app stamps the date. That date is what brings the customer back to you later.
4. Tap Add photo and shoot the finished surface. Take more than you think you need.
5. Tap Blend note and write down anything you would want to remember on the next one.
6. About eighteen months later, the app tells you that customer is due a UV coat. That is a phone call worth making.

TWO REASONS THIS MATTERS

First, your photos are your portfolio, and the next customer wants to see your work, not ours. Second, every surface you log is a reseal you will not forget about.

FLOCO Fred's take

Six months from now nobody remembers which blend went on which pool. The photo beside the blend remembers for you, and it is the single fastest way to sell the next job in that neighborhood.

THE FLOCO STANDARD.
THIS IS THE WHOLE DEAL.

Strip away every technique and every marketing trick, and being FLOCO Certified comes down to one promise: you do it right, and you represent it honestly. Live by this and the badge only grows in value. Break it and you lose the right to wear it. Simple, and worth everything.

THE CODE OF THE CERTIFIED

- ✓ I install to the FLOCO Standard: genuine materials, real prep, hand-troweled craft, designed on purpose.
- ✓ I represent honestly. I never promise beyond FLOCO's written warranty, and I'm clear that I'm an independent, locally owned business.
- ✓ I protect what's confidential: the formulas, methods and systems FLOCO trusted me with stay inside my company.
- ✓ I treat every customer like family and every job like the FLOCO name depends on it, because it does.

FLOCO Fred's take

You don't uphold the standard for us. You uphold it for the version of your business three years from now, the one that's booked out, premium-priced and known for doing it right. That business is built one honest job at a time.

NOW GO MAKE IT YOUR OWN.

You've got everything we've learned, the victories and the mistakes, poured onto these pages. The craft that lasts, the systems that scale, the voice that sells, and the standard that protects it all. What happens next isn't up to us anymore. It's up to you.

So take what we've learned, build on it, and make it your own. Do beautiful work, stand behind it, treat people like family, and go create something we're all incredibly proud to put the FLOCO name on. When you need us, we're right here, in the app, on the phone, in your corner. That's what family does.

> WHEN THE JOB IS BIGGER THAN YOUR CREW
> Win a hotel, a resort or a water park and you don't have to turn it down. Call us and we'll help you pull in reinforcements from the FLOCO network, certified crews from other territories who install to the same standard. The job stays yours. You just don't have to do it alone.

WELCOME TO THE FAMILY. NOW GO BUILD SOMETHING WE'RE PROUD OF.

TERMS, WARRANTY & LEGAL NOTICES

Plain-language notices that protect you, the customer, and the FLOCO name. These summarize, and do not replace, your Certification Agreement and FLOCO's written warranty, which govern.

1 · INDEPENDENT BUSINESS & CERTIFICATION

FLOCO Certified Specialists are independently owned and operated businesses. A Specialist is not an employee, agent, partner, joint venturer or franchisee of FLOCO Decking Systems, and has no authority to bind or create any obligation on behalf of FLOCO. Certification reflects completion of FLOCO's training and certification requirements and does not constitute a guarantee or warranty by FLOCO of an independent company's workmanship or contractual obligations. The customer contracts with, and pays, the Specialist's company directly, not FLOCO. The installation and the customer agreement are solely between the customer and the Specialist's company. This Playbook is not a franchise offering and creates no franchise, agency or employment relationship.

2 · WARRANTY & PERFORMANCE

There are two separate warranties on an installed surface, they come from two different places, and neither is FLOCO Decking Systems. They must be represented as such:

(a) Workmanship. The Specialist's installation workmanship is warranted by the Specialist's own company, on its own terms (a minimum of one year is recommended). This workmanship warranty is between the Specialist and the customer. FLOCO does not provide, administer or guarantee it.

(b) Product. Genuine premium TPV materials are designed for long-term performance and are covered under the manufacturer's and supplier's written warranty terms in effect at the time of purchase, supplied through American Recycling. Any coverage figure or multi-year term is valid only as stated in that written document and only when the surface is installed by a Certified Specialist using genuine FLOCO materials, cared for properly, and periodically resealed. The exact duration, conditions, limitations and exclusions are governed solely by FLOCO's written product warranty, which controls over anything in this book.

Conditions & exclusions include, without limitation: use of non-genuine materials or unauthorized methods; failure to follow care and resealing guidance; damage from bleach, acetone, solvents, pool chemicals or other prohibited substances; misuse, abuse, vehicle traffic, or use outside FLOCO's intended applications; and pre-existing or future movement, settling or failure of the underlying substrate. Rubber surfacing is a hand-finished product; slight, natural variation in color and texture is normal and is not a defect.

3 · HONEST CLAIMS & REPRESENTATIONS

Describe FLOCO using FLOCO's approved language. Never promise beyond the written product warranty, and never guarantee specific results, savings, slip-resistance outcomes, lifespan or performance in absolute terms. Use FLOCO's careful phrasing, for example "designed for long-term performance with proper care," "slip-resistant," "a more barefoot-friendly alternative to many hardscapes." Making unapproved, absolute or exaggerated claims is a violation of the FLOCO Standard and can result in decertification, in addition to any liability it creates for your company.

4 · CONFIDENTIALITY & INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

This Playbook and everything in it, the formulas, ratios, materials, methods, pricing, systems, the proprietary FLOCO cleaning formula, the Design Studio and the app, are the confidential trade secrets and intellectual property of FLOCO Decking Systems, shared with you in confidence. Do not copy, publish, post, resell, reverse-engineer or disclose them outside your certified company. FLOCO, the FLOCO palm mark, FLOCO Certified, FLOCO Fresh, FLOCO Design Studio and "The Rubber Surfacing Experts" are trademarks of FLOCO Decking Systems and may be used only as a current Certified Specialist, in the manner FLOCO approves. All confidentiality and trademark rights, and the obligation to stop using FLOCO marks and materials, continue if your certification ends for any reason.

5 · INCOME & RESULTS DISCLAIMER

Any prices, margins, membership figures, revenue examples or "one customer paid three times" scenarios in this book are illustrative only, provided to explain a business model. They are not a promise, projection or guarantee of earnings or results. Your results depend on your market, effort, pricing, costs and execution. FLOCO does not guarantee any level of income, sales or profit.

6 · SAFETY, LICENSING & COMPLIANCE

You are solely responsible for operating a lawful, safe business: following all product Safety Data Sheets and handling instructions; maintaining required licenses, permits, insurance and workers' coverage; and complying with all applicable codes, laws and regulations in your area. Nothing in this Playbook is legal, tax, insurance or professional advice. Consult your own qualified advisors.

This book is provided for information and training only and is furnished "as is." In the event of any conflict, your signed Certification Agreement and FLOCO's written product-warranty terms govern over this book. © 2026 FLOCO Decking Systems. All rights reserved.
